VOL. VIII.

GLENDALE (LOS ANGELES POSTOFFICE), LOS ANGELES COUNTY, CAL., FRIDAY, JULY 12, 1912

No. 12

CITY TRUSTEES

All members present. A communication was read from the building inspector stating that an application had been made for the erection of a brick building on Maryland avenue by H. Hall, to be used as a blacksmith shop; special action by trustees under building ordinance was requested; after discussion request was ordered to be granted.

Managers of lighting department and the city clerk submitted reports for June.

The opening and widening of Orange street was discussed at some length and finally referred to the city engineer with the understanding that he call a meeting of interested property owners and take up the question of a larger assessment district.

Ernest A. Owen addressed the board in regard to inadequate water services. The city attorney reported having written to the Consolidated Water Company and had read a reply received from Mr. Rogers of that company, a part of which follows:

The attorney further stated that he had written the public utility commission and received a reply to the effect that in the opinion of that body the city has authority to force extensions, etc., within its limits. Mr. Harry Lynch was authorized to ascertain the causes of the present shortage of water in sections served by the Consolidated company and report to the city attorney. In regard to the demand of the Verdugo Springs Water Co. compensation for water furnished at fires; the attorney quoted Sec. 549 Civil Code requiring water companies to furnish water for fires free of cost.

Mr. E. U. Emery complained regarding the dumping of rubbish on a vacant lot near his residence. This led to a discussion of the garbage question from which it appears that the city is unable to secure any place that can be used as a dumping ground. The clerk was instructed to secure data on the cost of incinerators.

A petition was received from Mrs. Robt. S. Hawcroft and 490 others requesting that the city consider favorably two sites for park purposes as set forth in petition which was accompanied by options. Referred to the committee of the whole. A deed was received from J. P. Shropshire and wife to ground on Broadway east of Glendale avenue required for widening that street. A report was received from the fire chief on cost of proposed apparatus and housing for the same. Referred to committee of the whole. The clerk reported that the final numbering of the census had been completed and would be ready for transmission immediately to the secretary of state. The city engineer reported that he had prepared proceedings for the improvement of the north 480 feet of Verdugo road at the former northerly city limits, it appearing that the Thom interests who own adjoining property will have the work done by private contract if given further time. Laid over.

A large number of demands on the lighting department previously referred to the finance committee were reported back favorably and warrants ordered to be issued.

The street superintendent was instructed to place signs on the streets leading across Verdugo road where necessary to divert traffic.

Trustee Tower offered a resolution ordering certain work done on Sixth street; adopted.

Trustee Coker offered a resolution ordering certain work done on Penn street; adopted.

An ordinance was read third time and adopted regulating the keeping of dogs.

The street superintendent made a report on streets necessary to be repaved, including portions of Second street, Glendale avenue, Broadway, Fifth, Sixth and Central avenue. Estimated cost $2000. He was authorized to proceed with the work. Manager of electric light department recommended that contracts on bids received for electrical supplies and material be awarded for street lights, regulators and panel, to Westinghouse Elec. Mfg. Co. for service transformers to General Elec. Co. Bids for street light reflectors be re-advertised. Adopted.

FOURTH OF JULY.

The day was generally observed in this vicinity, but not in a manner to attract attention, as so many people left town, going to the seashore and elsewhere that the streets were nearly deserted. The Glendale and Eagle Rock railway did a fine business, carrying in all during the day about 3000 fares, a thousand more than a year ago, which indicates that there was something doing at Verdugo Park.

The Los Angeles Rifle and Revolver Club celebrated the day at its grounds in Sycamore Canyon by a luncheon and shooting contest engaged in by both sexes. Mrs. Packard won a box of chocolates by a score of 21 against one of 19 made by Mrs. Kellogg.

Dr. Crossman won the overhead shotgun contest, Mr. Packard second. Another contest comes off next Sunday.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE.

The regular monthly meeting will be held at I. O. O. F. hall tonight (Friday) at 7:45. A full attendance is earnestly requested.

HOW WE GROW

As Shown by Figures of Building
Inspector and Lighting Department

BUILDING INSPECTOR'S REPORT.

Here is a comparison of building operations last year and this up to July 1:

1911.	No.	Amount.
January	17	$14,920
February	22	23,450
March	21	19,025
April	25	27,960
May	27	38,080
June	31	27,350
Total		$141,822
1912.	No.	Amount.
January	45	45,020
February	32	37,736
March	27	65,750
April	51	43,280
May	45	40,021
June	35	36,910
Total		$268,717

Of course, in making all comparisons allowance must be made for the growth of the corporation by annexation, which has brought into the municipality about 500 families. This in part accounts also for some of the growth in population from 2,734 in June, 1910, to 5,510.

LIGHT DEPARTMENT.

The increase of services in this department is about as good an index of our growth as anything else. Last year the department had 740 consumers; now there are about 1,500. In the annexed territory there were taken over from the Brand plant 311, the remainder of the total of 505 taken over being outside the present limits of the city. The receipts for the month of May were $2,750; expenses, not including interest, $1,320. Three-fourths of the income of the department is consumed in operating expenses and interest on bonds; the other fourth is applied to new construction and reducing the bonded indebtedness.

At present the department is serving about 100 customers outside the city limits. New meters are put in on an average of about one and a half a day. The last thirty days, fifty-four were set. During the past year the price to the consumer has been reduced ten per cent, in addition to furnishing of lamps by the department free of cost.

The construction of the ornamental light system on Broadway, Brand and Glendale avenue is now proceeding rapidly. The manholes are completed, and work has begun on the standards. There is a carload of cable on hand, one on the way, and two more ordered.

The contract has been let for the standards for the West Glendale system. The first named work will be completed in August, the latter in September.

BUILDING PERMITS.

Issued during the past week:
Mrs. W. W. Hurr, 404 South Orange street, a two-story residence, cost $4,000.

A. R. Taylor, 108 North Kenwood street, seven-room, story and a half bungalow, $3,500.

H. E. Hall, a four-room bungalow, $1,000.

Charles Kerns, 405 Central avenue, one-story dwelling house, $2,500.

Ed. Hobbs, 1567 Penn street, one-story residence, $2,000.

REAL ESTATE

AND BUILDING

Dr. J. S. Miller of Huntington Park, with offices in the Hellman building, Los Angeles, is a recent purchaser of Glendale property, and will build a home here.

Recent sales by Borthick Brothers are the following:
The home of L. M. Appleby, Riverdale drive and Columbus, consisting of an acre and a half of land, a two-story house and other improvements, to J. S. Chase of Caribou, Minn.

A lot on Chestnut street, between Central and Brand, 50 by 175 feet, to J. H. Flower, who will probably build a four-unit building for Alfred Meade, with a bungalow, corner of Brand and Acacia street, in exchange for a 12-acre ranch, of which five acres are in orange trees, near Arcadia. Valuation of each, $6,000.

A CHILDREN'S HOUR.

This one is not "Twixt the dark and the daylight," but at 9:30 in the morning, and the place is the public library with the librarian, Mrs. Danforth in the role of story teller, teacher and friend.

Every Tuesday Mrs. Danforth wants the children between the ages of seven and eleven. A reporter who had slightly passed the age limit, dropped in last Tuesday morning and by virtue of behaving quite decorously was allowed to remain for a few minutes. He found about 25 children piled up in the rear room where there were only about twelve chairs to accommodate them—but that didn't seem to matter, the youngsters behaved perfectly, kept as quiet as mice and appeared to take in every word and idea brought out in a quite thrilling story about a foolish little rabbit that came to grief because it thought that it knew more about cats than its parents did. The teacher didn't let the moral get away either and the reporter was quite sure that the little ones carried it home with them. Anyway, he gathered the idea himself that this Children's Hour is a splendid thing for the children and ought to be encouraged in every way possible for Mrs. Danforth knows how to get the most out of it for the little ones and they in turn appear to appreciate it fully. It is to be hoped that the library trustees may be able to make arrangements to accommodate the very large class of children who will no doubt be got together every Tuesday morning.

TO ALL INTERESTED

The G. A. Post will meet at headquarters, Glendale avenue and Ninth street, Saturday, July 13th, at 2 p. m. All G. A. R. men of the valley urged to be present. Comrades, come with us. We need you and we will do you good.

At 3:15 the hall will be opened to the public and Col. Morrison will address the meeting. Others will give short talks. Come help us on our way. We are passing on swiftly.

CROCKER CASE APPEALED.

Mr. Berry Sturgeon, attorney for Dr. Crocker, has perfected his appeal in the case of the City of Glendale versus Crocker, in which the defendant was fined $150 by Recorder Whomes, in accordance with the verdict of the jury, which found her guilty of furnishing, distributing and dividing alcoholic liquors to her guests.

BUFFET CLOSED

Country Club Takes a Step Forward

The following notice explains itself and the NEWS takes this occasion to draw attention to the club as an institution that is creditable to Glendale and deserving better support than the general public has been giving it. In other cities of similar size and importance country clubs are a recognized institution and this one should be supported in such a manner as to make it a very important factor in the building up of our city.

TO THE PUBLIC.

The attention of those who have considered joining the Glendale Country Club is called to the fact that the directors have closed the buffet. Some prospective members in the past have objected to joining the club on account of the buffet, and inasmuch as that feature has been dispensed with, we trust that we will receive the applications for membership from those who have objected on that ground.

We desire to call attention to the many attractions that we have to offer: monthly dances and card parties, billiard and pool tables and bowling alleys. The Glendale Country Club deserves the support of many people in Glendale who are not at present members.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS.

By R. L. Hinckley:

BRAND BOULEVARD RESTRICTIONS.

Mr. S. W. Martin, who is interested in getting some restrictions removed from Brand Boulevard property, informs us that he has heard from owners representing 1,000 feet of frontage. One of them favors leaving restrictions as they are, another desires a $2,000 restriction, two wish it made $2,500, and two other owners would abolish restrictions entirely. Mr. Martin would like to hear from more of the owners of frontage on that thoroughfare.

PRESBYTERIAN BROTHERHOOD.

Resolved, That the City of Glendale should have municipally owned parks, was the subject debated at the meeting of this organization held in the church Tuesday evening, Mr. H. L. Howe taking the negative side and Rev. F. A. Field the affirmative. The various members of the Brotherhood were lined up on the two sides and a very profitable discussion was the result. Decision was awarded by the Judges to the affirmative side of the question.

ACREAGE PURCHASED.

Mr. W. F. Wood, now residing on Orange Grove avenue, has purchased of P. A. C. Moore, five acres of the Dodge tract between Fifth and Sixth street east of Adams. The place adjoins the property of Mr. Broad on the east and extends from Fifth to Sixth street. Mr. Wood is an enthusiast on the subject of Glendale and will probably make extensive improvements.

COUNTY CHARTER COMMITTEE.

At a meeting of the charter committee July 2nd, the following resolution was adopted:
That the charter contain provision that the following officers, if provided for under the charter, be appointed by the board of supervisors: County clerk, treasurer, recorder, tax collector, public administrator, coroner, surveyor, registrar of voters.

EVANS-TUCKER.

On July 6 Mr. Norman Evans of Glendale and Miss Ethel Tucker of St. Louis were married at the residence of Rev. Welsh, East Hollywood. The young couple leave about August first for the North on a short tour, after which they will be at home in Glendale.

ARTIFICIAL SHORTAGE

Patrons of Consolidated Water Company Have Cause for Complaint—Letter from Company's Manager. Another from a Consumer

For the past ten days or so, water consumers in Glendale and a portion of Tropic who are dependent upon the Consolidated Water Company have been deprived of water for a considerable portion of every day. Along Adams street and the neighboring sections the supply usually fails about 5 or 6 o'clock in the evening and is not renewed until early in the morning. In other parts of town a similar condition prevails. This company owns the small "Independent" reservoir at the upper end of Glendale avenue, capable of holding a million gallons. Into this flows approximately 15 or 20 inches of canon water while a pump supplies about as much more. A portion of the territory supplied by this company is served direct from the pipes, which account for unsatisfactory pressure noted in some portions of the city. Over a year ago the Consolidated company promised to construct a reservoir that would be located high enough to furnish pressure and of sufficient capacity to meet the ordinary demand. Evidently nothing has been done in this direction.

The company also owns the Griswold well on the San Fernando road at Tropic and usually secures from 50 to 75 inches of water from this source, pumping it into the reservoir on Ninth street. For the past two or three weeks this well has been out of commission and is supposed to be clogged with sand, the work of clearing it out being delayed in a manner that seems unnecessary although we understand it is now being pumped out. When this is in operation no excuse will exist for the shortage of the supply. Local employees of the company do not seem able to throw much light on the situation, claiming that with the quantity of water constantly flowing into the company's pipes and reservoirs, its disappearance is more or less of a mystery. The following letter to City Attorney Evans from Manager Rogers is interesting if nothing more:

Los Angeles, Cal., July 6, 1912.
Mr. W. E. Evans, City Attorney,
Glendale, California.

Dear Sir: In reply to your letter of July 5th, would say I have had this matter up with the state board of public utilities. The only way for Glendale to get better water service is to make a rate that would be equal to the cost of operation, or buy the system and put in their own plant and then they will have something to learn.

You have fixed the rate below the actual cost of operation, without even allowing interest on the investment and leaves us nothing to buy land and put in a pumping plant so as to raise the water to the higher elevations. This 8th, Orange and Kenwood street condition has existed for a long time. Unless we can have something to pay us for laying the pipes and putting in reservoir to relieve these people we certainly cannot be called upon to expend money without even getting interest on same. The only way I see out of it is for the city to buy out this plant. Yours respectfully, Glendale Consolidated Water Co.
By Ralph Rogers, Mgr.

This letter was in reply to one written to the company by City Attorney Evans. After the reading of the letter at the trustees' meeting Monday evening, Mr. Evans was directed to refer the matter to the state board of utilities and to take such other steps as may be calculated to get results. Tropic is having the same trouble as Glendale and the trustees of both cities have passed an ordinance reducing rates, which accounts for the tenor of Mr. Rogers' communication. A suit has been filed by the Tropic (Consolidated) Water Co. against the Tropic trustees to restrain them from putting the rates into effect. In this case the company alleges that it furnishes water to 500 consumers (families) the investment amounting to $59,796 upon which, at 6 per cent it is entitled to $3587.80 interest.

THE WATER QUESTION.

Correspondent Wants to Know.
EDITOR OF NEWS.

I may be a blockhead, but I find that if we want to know anything in this world we have to ask questions: If the people of Glendale want to get information relating to and a favorable report on the water proposition, why in the name of common sense don't they have a committee appointed that is favorable to the project, and not one that is boosting for annexation to Los Angeles and to getting the Owens river at any consideration?

We have the purest water here that there is in the country. Is it good policy for us to let every opportunity slip and lose the chance to secure this water for domestic purposes when it can be purchased at the present time on such favorable conditions, and finally have Los Angeles' Glauber Salts (the worst of the alkalies) saddled upon us forever with only a leasehold interest, to a quantity which we must pay for whether we use it or not, and at greater cost than we would have to pay for some of the present systems which we would absolutely own and control for all time?

It is about time for the people of Glendale to get a move on themselves and look out for the Ethiopian in the home woodpile.

BLOCKHEAD.

GLENDALE HOUSEWIVES' DAILY PRAYERS.

Evening Prayer:
Now I lay me down to sleep,
I pray the Lord the water keep;
If in the morning it's on the wane,
I pray I may not go insane.

Morning Prayer:
I get me up before daylight,
I pray the Lord the water's right;
Should it go off before the night,
I pray the Lord I may not fight.

Where are the women's clubs? Shall we be required to adopt the I. W. W. methods to secure enough water, from certain companies, with which to brush our teeth morning-to-night, say nothing of preparing our food or washing dishes?

Or shall we just wait with the belief that, as the Scriptures say, "All things come to those that wait?"

While we wait, sickness and disease may stalk forth and lay their hands upon our loved ones. Our homes will become unsanitary from lack of proper water supply.

We believe in patience in all things; and where accidents occur which temporarily interfere with our water supply, and satisfactory explanations are given, we refrain from criticism.

But what is to be done when a water company gives us the spasmodic turning off and on of water we have been enduring lately, and when the officials state that owing to reduction of rates they "cannot lay larger pipes and raise reservoir" etc.?

We have had better service with these same pipes—so why all this mystery?

Shall we tamely sit by and submit to such irregular, scanty service, with regular full water bills?

If the company is short of water, it must be lack of preparation to handle water supply, poor pumps, or deliberate holding back of water supply. In any case, if they have any sense of justice, they should notify us when they intend to cut off our water. If they have no water, and cannot supply their patrons, they should be humane enough to enlighten us in time, that the city may arrange some way out of the difficulty.

AN EARNEST HOUSEWIFE.

INDEPENDENCE DAY TEA.

Mr. and Mrs. A. McIntyre of 435 Isabelle street presided at a happy gathering in their home on Independence Day. After a pleasant afternoon passed out of doors, high tea was served on the lawn. Flags and Fourth of July emblems made the occasion attractive. Guests were Mr. and Mrs. James McIntyre and family, Mr. and Mrs. Fred McIntyre, Rev. and Mrs. G. R. Mesias, Miss Mary Mesias, Mrs. Helen Hunt and Mrs. A. Bradstreet of Los Angeles. Assistant hostesses were Miss Annie McIntyre and Mrs. Helen Campbell.

New Garage

Mr. J. P. Shropshire will begin the construction of a new garage on Broadway, opposite the McIntyre block, in a few days. The dimensions of the building will be 50x80 feet and it will have an ornamental brick front. The building will be completed by the first of September and will be known as the Broadway Garage. It has already been leased to the firm of Bruce & Waite, who are both experts in that line, and will be equipped with an outfit of modern, new machinery.

CHAPTER III.

"Waiting For a Prince to Come."

THE colonel told Miss Ellen what the girls had said about Jim, at which she laughed heartily, but grew very red and showed some annoyance when he related what they had said about choosing a farm in the country and especially when reference was made to Squire Hawkins. I shall never forget how my plate looked after it had gone around the table. It had left my table empty and had come back piled to the brim with every sort of vegetable on the table. Miss Ellen laughed when I confessed that I did not know how to eat rice, nor would she rest content until she had taken my plate and arranged it according to the manner of eating rice in that section. She covered it with butter and sprinkled a little salt on it and, handing it back to me, bade me eat it, telling me that it was a part of my education. She laughed again when I wanted to put pepper on it, but she would let her father put a little dash of pepper over it if it were not palatable. I ate it, not because I liked it then, for I would have eaten so much sawdust had she told me it was good and asked me to do so.

Every now and then, after I had swallowed some rice, I would look up to find her eyes fixed roguishly on me, and then we would both laugh. She seemed to relish the idea that I did not like the rice and that I was eating it because she had fixed it and told me to do so. I made this fact very plain to her by the faces I would make in swallowing it. She confessed afterward to a little malice in forcing me to eat it, and later, when I really began to like it, she would often say, "Will you have your rice with cream and sugar on it or a little pepper, Mr. Palmer?"

After dinner we went on the porch, where Bud brought us pipes. "I hope you like the pipe," he said as he handed me an old briar root. "We have given up cigars lately on account of the tariff," he added with a big, good natured laugh. I said I did; that it was my chiefest luxury in my university days and I still preferred it to cigars. Colonel Turpin said that if I did not object to music Ellen would play us something; that she always did when he took his after-dinner smoke. I said that I could not imagine greater luxury, and I leaned back prepared to undergo any amount of torture and outrage to my artistic nature, for I knew something of music, as my father had been a splendid performer on the piano and had given me the benefit of his knowledge. Instead of hymns and waltzes, however, there floated through the window to us the sweetest notes I seemed ever to have heard. I sat dreamily thinking of this lovely girl and her odd surroundings when she appeared at the window and asked if there was anything that I liked especially.

"I do not know if you care for Chopin," she said. "Father does not know it is Chopin, but it is the music he likes, and so I always play some of the nocturnes for him."

"The truth is, Miss Turpin," I said. "I did not think of what you were playing, but was merely feeling the effect of the music. Your playing seemed to me to be a part of the scene out here, as if it were an accompaniment to the moon in its wanderings or to the stars in the silent watches."

My speech sounded like flattery and I blushed as the thought came to me. "I hope you will forgive my praise if it seemed extravagant," I said, "but I only said what was in my heart with out reflecting that you might take it for flattery." I had been accustomed to pay compliments at will and sometimes, I fear, was given to flattery, but I would not have had this young girl think me guilty of such ill breeding for anything in the world.

"If that is the way you feel," she answered sweetly, "I will play something for you and trust to pleasing father," and, going back to the piano, she played something—I do not know what. Bud said he had never heard her play it before, and though I asked her often after that to play it for me again, I never heard it, yet the strains even now go through my head when I sit in the moonlight or lie awake at nights thinking of Ellen.

She disappeared after a while to clear the table and wash the dishes. I thought, with some resentment, Colonel Turpin talked politics, and I soon learned that he was decided in his views, though somewhat mixed in his politics. I found out that he was addicted to the habit of writing "pieces" for the papers, but never under his own name. He chose rather some odd de plume as "Vox Populi," "Citizen" and sometimes "Patriot." He did not believe that writing was the profession of a gentleman unless one could hide one's identity. Yet he felt that the public should be educated by this means. He was a Democrat, but believed in a high protective tariff. He disclaimed being a jingo, but thought it the duty of the government to avenge the wrongs of any people persecuted by a foreign power. And so the night wore on and the moon rose higher in the heavens. I heard Bud and the colonel discuss the work on the farm and judged that the former and two or three negroes did it all save in the picking season.

There was a contradiction about this strange household which was perplexing to me. Where had Miss Ellen mastered the piano, and why was Bud, with the apparent education of a cultured gentleman, wearing jeans and doing the plow work in the fields? I had begun to weary of conjecture when Miss Ellen returned and offered to show me the view from the cupola. It was a weary climb to the top of that old house, but one felt repaid on reaching there as the panorama unfolded itself in the moonlight. The moon was but a fortnight old, and the night was cloudless. Miss Ellen pointed out to me the field where the army of Sherman had camped on its famous march to the sea, but had not a word of criticism to make of that great general. She told me of the strong young manhood that was developing to regenerate the land and seemed to think the freedom of the slaves a blessing to both people. She promised to take me to the negro settlement some day and show me how they lived. She had a Sunday school there of colored girls, "for," she said, "it is going to be through the mothers of the colored race that we will some day reach it and 'elevate it' to what is good and moral." I stood spellbound, as it were, by her earnestness and faith, and all my preconceived opinions began to fall away under the influence of this little brown eyed girl in a gingham gown.

That night after I retired to my room the instincts of the newspaper man, which had lain dormant since arriving at the Pines, began to stir, and I could not help thinking what a picture this household would make if held up before a Boston audience. But to turn these kindly people into an object lesson would be the basest ingratitude. Yet put this idea from me as I would, it would recur to me during the night, and scene after scene, with Ellen and Bud always in the foreground, kept shifting themselves across the mental canvas, and argue as I would that to make use of this homely life with its poverty and pride, its dignified endurance of changed conditions, as the subject of a news letter would be an ill return for the hospitality I had received, yet I could not put aside the longing to pen the picture as I saw it and to paint it boldly, in order that others might see it in the same light as it had appeared to me.

The next morning I was up early, the sun, in fact, being only an hour ahead of me. Thinking it would be an excellent chance to see something of the place and study its character more in detail, for I had become deeply interested in everything connected with the Pines, I dressed hastily and started for a brisk walk. As I was making the half circuit of the house by way of exploration I came upon Miss Ellen, carrying an armful of kindling wood.

"Why, Miss Turpin," I cried, "I had no idea of finding you up at this hour." "You forget the dual character I play," she laughed. "I am not early, however, for it is late. But you are responsible for it, as you demoralized the household last night in encouraging father to discuss politics. Doubtless you saw all his fallacies, but was kind enough not to point them out to him."

I had been much entertained, I said, though his politics appeared to be somewhat mixed and his ideas were quite different from those I had expected to hear him express.

"Yes," she answered; "he is half Democrat and half Republican, with a dash here and there of populism. I fear, but it makes him very angry to tell him so, as he thinks himself a hidebound Democrat. He can never forget that Henry Clay believed in a protective tariff. I think, next to General Ogilthorpe, he admires the Kentucky farmer more than any of our historical characters. But I must not allow myself to be dragged into political argument, for I see you are ready to take up the cudgel for Clay, no doubt, and since you have come bothering about so early you must make yourself useful." She then showed me the wood pile and told me to bring enough to the kitchen to last two full days.

"Miss Turpin," I said a little later as I entered the kitchen with my arms loaded down with short oak logs, "is it really necessary for you to do this work?"

She looked with surprise at me, and I thought I saw a faint color come to the surface of her skin, but I could not tell, for she was lighting the fire. She saw that I was earnest in my question, and still kneeling in front of the stove, she turned her frank face toward me and said:

"I would resent the question, Mr. Palmer, did I not know that a kind heart prompted it. Yes," she added: "it is as necessary for me to do this as it is for Bud to plow. Of course you must have heard from your relatives that the Turpins were greatly reduced. The house is heavily mortgaged, and to meet the interest we have to save in every legitimate way. Bud wants to hire a cook, but I will not listen to him. Father is determined that the moment he defaults on the interest that minute he will give up the Pines to the owners, for such they are who hold the mortgage on it. And, oh, Mr. Palmer, you don't know what it would mean to father and mother to move from here now. Besides, too, we would be no better off—even worse, I think, for we would have no place at all. Bud and I would be glad to go into the world and run our chances, but it can't be thought of, not now." She sighed and continued to make the

By degrees I found out all there was to be known of the family, for there were no skeletons there. After the war it seems that Colonel Turpin had lived in a reckless sort of way, still keeping up the style of living he had grown accustomed to, before the change of fortune in the southern planter's life. It was not until Bud had finished his college course and Miss Ellen had completed her studies that the real condition of the family became known. It was these two who had finally saved the plantation and home by pledging the interest on the mortgage. There was one more child, a boy of sixteen. The brother and sister were keeping him at college now and had planned that he should take the course in law after his academic studies were completed. Was there more courage in New England, I wondered, and was it not the blood of the cavalier that was telling now? She had given me her confidence without restraint, for she believed me then to be one with the Kentucky Palmers, and I, weak creature, dared not disabuse her mind for fear of losing that confidence and friendship which this fictitious relationship had inspired.

"And now, Mr. Inquisitive," she said, "if you have finished your catechism, I will mix the batter and you will go for a long walk and get an appetite for breakfast."

She had rolled up her sleeves in order to knead the dough, and with her arm bare to the elbow she pointed out to me a road which she advised me to take, telling me it would bring me to the old Ogilthorpe bridge.

"But your father promised that you should take me there," I said, "and that is a debt of honor you must pay." "Very well," she laughed, as if preparing to go, "but you will go without your breakfast, and, what is worse, Bud will call you out for making him lose his, for he comes from the fields hungry and out of temper sometimes."

"I would not mind going without mine," I said, "but heaven forbid that so fine a fellow should go without his." Tears came into her eyes, but she soon brushed them away and with a smile said:

"You touched a weak spot then. Bud is the salt of the earth, and he deserves to find diamonds in this dull soil instead of fighting out his life for a few pounds of cotton."

I started down the road which she had pointed out, wondering what had come over me when my life in Boston had seemed a thing forgotten in a few hours and my work and literary career become a secondary matter with me. I passed through an old orchard, where the opening apple buds lent their fragrance to the air, and by my side it seemed to me that the unseen presence of Miss Ellen walked.

The dogwood was blossoming down by the branch, and when I reached the pine trees their crisp needles, stirring in the breeze, seemed singing some blithesome air instead of wailing mournfully, as they had done the evening previous. I saw her little rose garden and, picking the only flower then in bloom, hid it away beneath my waistcoat. There was an impassioned quickness in the unkempt lawn, and out of the cedar and underbrush I might have expected to see some dryad come. I found the bridge by the path Miss Ellen had pointed out and for an hour sat reclining upon its ivy colored arch conjuring up such scenes as I imagined had been enacted here when its owners lived in affluence and when women in silks and satin and powdered hair sat in the oaken dining hall and danced the stately minuet on rich carpets and under many lights. In my mental vision I thought I saw one with the features of Miss Ellen who gilded past all others and stood in gay colored brocade waiting to be wooed like a princess. The picture faded, and I saw the real Ellen, none the less real, but in place of the scorn the other wore upon her lips there was a gentle patience, and about her form there hung a simple cotton gown more beautiful than the stately gown woven in my dream picture. I must have been asleep, then, after all, I thought, looking at my watch, for it was past the time when she told me to be back. Hurrying home the way I came, I found them seated at the breakfast table, and I pleaded guilty to an early morning nap among the woods.

"And your dream?" she asked, as if reading what was in my mind.

"Was of a beautiful woman clad in silks," I said, "and she stood in an old hall waiting for a prince to come." "Ah, what a sad awakening!" she said, laughing sweetly.

"But wait until I tell you of the change that came over the spirit of my dream," I added.

"And I will some day show you the first scene of your picture," she said softly.

"And the last part?" "I do not know what it is, and you have not told me."

"But I will some day, and," looking into her deep brown eyes and almost speaking in a whisper, "I like it better than the first portion of my picture." I did not see Miss Ellen alone again that day. Squire Hawkins called in the afternoon and stayed to dinner. He was a kindly looking man, not over fifty, I should say, and he wore a prosperous air, and he seemed to me to have seen a good deal of the world. Miss Ellen did not play for us that evening, for she and the squire took a long walk in the moonlight, and when she came home she went to her room, only stopping to say good night as she passed us on the porch. The squire stayed awhile longer and entertained us with stories of his university days in Germany, where he had been educated. He seemed to treat Miss Ellen when he was with her in such a gentle, fatherly way that I laughed at his courting her. I enjoyed his company and laughed heartily over his stories, which were good and well told. He had some good cigars, which Bud and I enjoyed, but the colonel would not smoke one, for he said they would upset his nerves and make him "bunker" after the despatches of Egypt. The squire tried to banter him out of his resolution, but the colonel was obstinate and stuck to the pipe.

ALEXANDER POPE WAS RIGHT

The proper study of mankind is man.—Alexander Pope.

MR POPE, who was writing poetry about 200 years ago, was exactly right in his declaration quoted above. If you would study man you must study his deeds.

WHERE WILL YOU LEARN ABOUT THEM EXCEPT IN THE NEWSPAPERS?

These accurate histories of the world's affairs tell what man is doing everywhere, whether it is flying through the air, stealing a million dollars, laboring for world peace, plotting to overthrow a government or to establish one, committing a murder or trying to escape punishment for one already done, making a political speech or watching the antics of a comet.

NOTHING THAT IS INTERESTING OR IMPORTANT ESCAPES THE DRAGNET OF THE NEWSPAPERS.

News that literally costs thousands of dollars to collect is printed and given to the reader for a cent or two. Can you, can any one, afford to miss such a mental treat and financial bargain?

"WITH ALL MY WORLDLY GOODS."

There are thousands of women who must implore their husbands for every nickel. Many a man certainly has no regard for his vows at the altar. "With my worldly goods I thee endow," since often the truth of the matter is that he does not intend to endow her with a single penny. It is needless to say that there are many downtrodden women doing all the cooking and mending clothes who do not know the pleasure of having a little money that they may call their own. Therefore, if there was a law by which a husband was compelled to give half of his earnings to his wife, certainly apportioned in such a way that the mutual expense would be paid, then she would enjoy many little things that are quite necessary to a woman of which she is now deprived.—Lady Francis Cook.

His Brand of Fraud.

In the early days a famous lawyer in Jackson county was Russell Hicks. He had a faculty of saying the most sarcastic and cutting things, and he was often retained in a case simply to hurt the feelings and "rattle" the lawyer on the opposing side. He was retained for this purpose once in a lawsuit. The lawyer against him was a young man, and at the proper time Hicks arose and began to abuse this young lawyer, denouncing both him and his case together as a combined fraud.

Now, Mr. Hicks had a habit of dyeing his hair, and upon this day he had been out in the rain, and the dye had become soaked off in spots, so that the dye was plainly to be seen by all. When the young lawyer arose to reply to the attack upon him he said: "Gentlemen of the jury, this man should be the last one on earth to talk of fraud. Look at his head, gentlemen. See that hair. Every spear of it is a painted fraud."

The young man won the case.—Kansas City Star.

Unimpressed.

"Mabel," he said enthusiastically upon his return from the lodge, "congratulate me. I am now a grand exalted Pooh Bah of the first rank."

"So," said Mabel indifferently.

"I am a high and mighty duke of the grand duchy!"

"Hum!"

"I have been elected to the degree of most excellent chancellor of the king's sacred circle."

"Hum!"

"I am a grand earl of the early risers. I am lord of the inner chamber of sovereignty and as such entitled to all the perquisites and privileges belonging to such a lofty station, and, what is more, I am a supreme king of the favored few."

"All right, king. Now go out in the back yard and beat the dust out of the rug on the line. By the time you get through with that you'll probably be down on earth again," said she coldly.

—Detroit Free Press.

Indian Wit.

In Colonel Newell's reminiscences as an Indian agent is this story: The Indian commissioner visited the agency one day and asked to have all the Indians brought before him that he might make them a speech. Those were the Brule Sioux, of whom Spotted Tail, one of the most illustrious of Indians, was at that time head chief. In the course of his address the commissioner asked the Indians to quit painting their faces and bodies. He told them that none but a savage painted his face or his body. After he had finished Spotted Tail arose.

"You say we are savages because we paint our faces and bodies," he said. "Last spring I was in Washington and went to the president's inaugural ball. All the white women at that ball had their faces painted. I do not think we are savages," he said.

The assembled Indians shrieked with laughter.

The Tag at the Rear.

A Chicago physician recently motor ed to Columbus, where he spent several days with friends on the east side. While downtown one day he left his touring car standing in front of the Chittenden hotel, and when he came out he saw the colored doorman standing back of the machine laughing.

"What's the giggle?" queried the doctor.

"Nothing, boss," answered the genial doorman. "But you're a physician, aren't you?"

"Yes."

"I thought so when I saw the red cross on the front of your machine, but if I owned that car I'd take that sign off the back."

The doctor went around to the rear and looked at the license tag. It read: "35,000 ILL."—Columbus Dispatch.

Frogs and Mud Fests.

There is a frog indigenous to Brazil which builds a regular mud fort during the breeding season in order to protect her eggs and tadpoles. The female frog dives to the bottom of the water, scoops up two handfuls of mud and repeats the process until she has erected a circular wall about one foot in diameter. She keeps on till the wall stands at least five inches above the surface of the water, and the whole is most carefully smoothed down with her broad, webbed hands. The work is performed only at night, and when it is completed the eggs are deposited.

Shocked Him Anyhow.

"What's old Titewad looking so grouchy about?"

"Got short changed out of $15 last night, and he's sore."

"Titewad short changed out of $15—hurray! It doesn't seem possible. Where'd it happen?"

"The only place it could happen—in a dream."—Houston Post.

Then He Got Mad.

Husband (impatiently)—If the fool killer would strike this town he would find plenty of work to do. Wife—Is there such a person, dear? Husband—Of course there is. Wife (with anxiety)—Well, I do hope, John, that you will be very careful.

Peace Hath Her Victories.

She—No, I can never marry you, but we can always be friends. He—Well, that is one of the advantages of not getting married.—Puck.

Babies in Arabia.

Life for a baby in Arabia is no joke, that of an infant of the upper classes being especially difficult. A royal baby's first toilet consists in winding a bandage around its body after it has been carefully bathed and perfumed. If the child be a girl on the seventh day after her birth holes, usually six in number, are pricked in her ears, and when she is two months old heavy gold rings are attached to them to be worn throughout her lifetime except during periods of mourning for relatives. On the fortieth day the baby's head is shaved, and the disposal of the hair is regarded as a weighty matter. It must not be burned or carelessly thrown away, but buried, thrown into the sea or hidden away. The fortieth day marks a turning point in the child's life. Heretofore it has only been seen by a few, but now it may be seen by anybody and is regarded as fairly launched on the tide of existence. Several charms are attached to its body for protection against the "evil eye." Everything the child uses is perfumed and covered at night with jessamine and before it is used fumigated with amber and musk and sprinkled with attar of roses.—Exchange.

Songs of Day Before Yesterday.

We made up a catalogue recently of popular songs of the last two decades. Hardly was it set in type before those omitted began to swarm to memory. "Shoo Fly, Don't Bother Me," might have been added to the numerous old timers. "Put Me Off at Buffalo," "And Her Golden Hair Was Hanging Down Her Back," "On the Banks of the Wabash Far Away," "Rosie O'Grady," "Take Me Back, Back, Back to Baltimore," and "I'd Leave My Happy Home For You-o-o-o-o-o." "Goodbye, Dolly Gray," "She Was Happy Till She Met You," "Bedella," "Sammy" and "Teasing" had their intense and fleeting existence. Too popular to be overlooked were "Mister Dooley," "In the Shade of the Old Apple Tree," "Everybody Works but Father" and "Waiting at the Church." Of the whole crop it seems as if all were transitory except "There'll Be a Hot Time in the Old Town Tonight."—Collier's Weekly.

The Track of the Earth.

If the sun and earth and the earth's orbit could be seen, then the track of the earth would be a spiral around that of the sun. Go take a broomstick, wind wire around it like thread on a spool, take out the stick and stretch the coil until the space between each turn is, say, one-third of an inch and make a hundred turns of the wire. Then this spiral or coil would represent the track of the earth through space during a hundred years. The sun moves toward the star Vega at a speed of twelve miles per second and carries the earth, all the planets and their moons along. But they all move around the sun at the same time and therefore traverse spirals, represented fairly by extended coils of wire.—Edgar Lucien Larkin in New York American.

The Canny Justice.

"There's a durned fine lookin' car o' yours, mister," said the old man with the chin whisker as he inspected Dubbleigh's motor standing in front of the Eagle House at Tugus.

"You bet it is," said Dubbleigh. "I came over here from Watkins Corners this morning in just fifty-five minutes. Going some, eh?"

"Yes, sir," said the old gentleman, stroking his whisker thoughtfully.

"Kin ye prove it?"

"I have five witnesses in my guests," said Dubbleigh.

"Waal, I'll take yer word for it," said the stranger. "Jest fork over twenty-five, and we'll call it square. I'm jestice o' the peace round here, and it'll save time to settle this here violation right now."—Harper's Weekly.

The Sign.

A famous craniologist while strolling leisurely through a churchyard found a gravedigger tossing up the earth in which there were two or three skulls. The craniologist took them up and, after considering one a little time, said, "Ah, this is the skull of a philosopher!"

"Very likely, your honor," replied the solemn gravedigger. "Sure, I noticed it was somewhat cracked."—London Telegraph.

Didn't Convince Him.

"Keep out of debt, young man," said the philosopher. "People will think better of you for it."

"Perhaps," was the thoughtful reply, "and yet I've noticed that the more I owe people the gladder they always seem to be to me."

Beadie and Minister.

A story is told about a west country minister and his beadle, showing the familiarity that used to exist between the minister and his man. The minister and John had got into an argument, and it became so hot that John was like to lose his temper. The minister naturally tried to throw oil on the troubled waters.

"Man, John," he said, "it's a good thing we are not all of one mind. For example, had everybody been of my mind everybody would have been wanting my good wife Janet."

"Very true," replied John a little surly, "for if everybody had been in the same mind as me naebody would have taken her awa. She may mak' a guid enough minister's wife, but she would hae made a purr show aside my Jean!"

—London Answers.

Superstitious Miners.

Coal strikes have sometimes been threatened in England on curious grounds. In 1874 a woman was employed as a messenger at one of the collieries near Oswestry. As she commenced her day's work very early, she often met the miners on their way to the pit, and as the men considered it a bad omen to meet a woman first thing in the morning, trouble arose. By threats and persuasion they tried to get the offending female to give up her job, but, failing in this, they went in a body to the manager and flatly refused to go down until the woman had been dismissed.

GLENDAL, CAL., JULY 12, 1912

Our new flag has forty-eight stars.

Plans have been made and bids are now being received for three halls of the Occidental College at Eagle Rock.

South Pasadena is complaining of the impurity of the water furnished by the Glendale Consolidated Water Co. The water is obtained from the Arroyo Seco and it is claimed that it is contaminated.

From the Eagle Rock Sentinel we learn that Edwards and Wilkey have sold to Wilson Foster of New York an option to purchase 1650 acres of Sycamore Canon, adjoining Glendale's east boundary, price $75,000.

Mr. W. C. Parcher, formerly of the Hollywood Citizen who went up to Inyo county for his health about a year ago, has broken into the newspaper fold again by purchasing the Bishop Herald. He has many friends among the newspaper men of Southern California who wish him success.

The City of Sierra Madre has adopted an ordinance requiring property owners to clean their lots of weeds or "other inflammable material." Notice will be served on property owners and if disregarded the work is done by the city at the property owner's expense.

The NEWS which is usually in the postoffice Friday morning, was not mailed until evening of that day last week, throwing mail delivery a day behind. We cannot celebrate all the holidays that our generous lawmakers have given us, but for the present we intend that the Fourth of July shall not be one of those that may be disregarded.

SEND IN NAMES.

We shall be glad to mail sample copies of this paper to any one outside of California whose friends here may think a good prospect for missionary work. Send in names and addresses and from time to time we shall be glad to mail copies. Of course if you want them to get the paper regularly
the best way is to pay the subscription price.

The NEWS understands that an other park proposition is to be offered to the trustees next Monday evening.
This is the purchase of the old Byram homestead on Glendale avenue fronting and south of Second street. We do not know the size of the tract, but it is probably not more than two acres. The place has on it some fine ornamental and shade trees, a very desirable adjunct to a park proposition, affording as it would a "breathing place" ready made.

An initiative petition is in circulation asking for an amendment to the constitution of the state in Article XI relating to the formation of consolidated city and county governments.
Of course the petition will get the required number of signers, a petition to abolish the ten commandments could do that. The different sections of the petition setting forth its intent are somewhat involved, but it looks considerably like the old proposition by which outside territory may be gobbled by the greater municipality without a chance to say nay.

CAPT. WELLS HEARD FROM.

The NEWS has received a copy of the Twin Falls Times, of Twin Falls, Idaho, and finds therein an account of an address delivered to the Commercial Club of that place by our former fellow townsman, Capt. J. M. Wells.
Capt. Wells was an Idaho pioneer and related to the citizens of Twin Falls many interesting incidents of early days. Glendale friends will be glad to hear from Capt. Wells, who it will be remembered is one of the few survivors of the famous "Escape from Libby."

The situation in Glendale and Tropi-co brought about by the failure of the Consolidated Water Company to furnish water to the consumers on its system for a considerable portion of the time every day, is a most serious one and in the event of the breaking out of a fire, might be disastrous.

There is certainly grounds for the belief that the company is deliberately "getting even" with the city officials for daring to pass an ordinance regulating water rates. The matter should be investigated and some action taken at once to relieve a serious and apparently unnecessary condition.

A PREPOSTEROUS PROPOSITION.

The following is from the San Francisco Star, a Democratic paper which cannot be accused of favoring President Taft:

It was tough, it was more than tough, that the Republican National Convention refused to accept the temporary roll prepared by the Roosevelt adherents and containing seventy-two names of contestants for delegates places whom they declared should have been seated.

It was tough because if that pretty little scheme had been carried into effect, and the precedent thus established henceforth heeded, it would have constituted the snappiest sort of a soft snap for tricky politicians that that gentry ever has known. All that then would be necessary in order that a presidential aspirant might insure his nomination would be the engineering of a sufficient number of contests (regardless of their merits).

Of course the Rooseveltian claim in this matter was preposterous. Somewhere there had to lie the power to decide contests, and this power had been placed in the hands of the national committee. It is true that the committee might have decided contests wrong—although the fact that the committeemen of both factions voted together in many instances is indicative that they always did not—they might have decided wrong, we say, but they certainly were not as likely to do so as were the big-bound partisans of a certain candidate. At any rate, the decision of such contests was one of the duties of the national committee.

It was most absurd, this Rooseveltian contention, and yet its overwhelming presumption and effrontery sort of dazzle. The idea must have found its birth in Roosevelt, for nothing else than his unparalleled "nerve" could have suggested it. It did not work; it should not have worked, and the advocates of a proposition so ridiculous will look prettiest if they will take without whining the defeat they invited.

"THE BREAD AND BUTTER SIDE."

Mrs. Katherine Tingley in her address of welcome to the editors at Point Loma two weeks ago, said something which is worthy of considerable thought. Speaking in an altruistic vein of the things that she hoped to see accomplished for the betterment of the world, she said: "And in that future there will be fewer newspapers and better ones; fewer children and better ones." To the assembled editors she spoke briefly of the influence of commercialism on journalism, the necessity that the newspaper man is usually under of catering first to the "bread and butter" side of his business. Naturally this part of her address appealed forcibly to the members of the newspaper fraternity that composed the major part of her audience. All recognized the fact that the making of a newspaper is a business proposition first, whether such should, for the welfare of the community be the case or not. But the responsibility for this condition is not altogether with the publishers of newspapers; their patrons must assume a considerable proportion of it. If the public demands a newspaper that shall cater to their desires, take no stand opposed to their wishes and be merely a reflection of themselves, the people cannot expect such a sheet to be any more than a business venture and it becomes at once a "bread and butter" proposition. The average newspaper man finds that it does not pay, financially, to have ideals, and he naturally lays them aside as far as his newspaper work is concerned. And yet the tone of the average newspaper is really pitched on a higher plane than it is credited with by the reading public.
Some of them among the financially successful ones, may have their editorial utterances inspired by the business office, but a large number on the other hand do not yield altogether to the business of "Dollar Chasing."

The large portion of the smaller papers (weeklies) which refuse to open their columns to the advertising promiscuously of patent medicines, is creditable to the newspaper manager's sense of responsibility, and yet by the way, it does not bring him the patronage of the doctors who find it "unethical" to advertise! In that future that Mrs. Tingley spoke of, the editor will disregard the business office and speak at all times the truth as he sees it, regardless of its effect upon his advertising patrons!

becoming more involved day by day and the popular Shibboleth, "Government of the people," becoming more and more a sham and a delusion. Possibly the worst of these laws is the one providing for the naming of presidential electors. Under the old system, the different parties met in convention and selected the names of the men who should cast, if elected, the ballot of the state in the electoral college. The new law takes this privilege from the parties by providing that one set of names only shall be placed upon the ballot at the presidential election; which is thereby made a mere formality and a farce. The committee to select these names is to be made up by the assemblymen and senators elected at the fall primary election and the hold-over senators acting together. In effect therefore the real presidential election will be held at the September primaries. There is just one alternative, the party electors may be nominated by petition. To put through successfully a state-wide petition is a slow and serious piece of work and the time in which to do it is limited. Governor Johnson says this law is as fair to the Taft as to the Roosevelt supporters. Let us see.
There are about twenty hold-over senators, elected two years ago; practically all of these were elected by the Roosevelt element and unless they have changed their spots are still supporters of that picturesque individual.

As far as these members of the committee are concerned, their action is fore ordained by their political creators! And this law was made by the same men who were so indignant at the action of the national committee in Chicago!

But this is not the only feature of the law. It compels every candidate for the legislature to take a strictly political stand, it drags the aspirant for legislative honors into the mire

of politics.

The people are entitled, or once were, to select assemblymen and senators on the grounds of fitness for legislative work along other than political lines. But now they must stand or fall on a strictly political issue.
By the side of this law, the "Grandfather" election laws of some of the Southern states, are statutes of sweetness and light!

PATRIOTISM.

The love of country is an innate virtue and only unfortunate personal experience or equally unfortunate environment and teachings can remove it.
Perhaps the true spirit of patriotism was never set forth in a more pathetic manner than in that wonderful story of the late E. E. Hale, "The Man Without a Country." Nearly every boy and girl is familiar with it and if there be any who have not read it, they should do so at once. Patriotism is personified in the nation's flag, an emblem with which we are so familiar that it does not always inspire us with the feeling which it should arouse. Col. De Leur, who died in Los Angeles a few years ago and who was a remarkable orator, sometimes told in his political addresses the story of a convict who was found dead in his lonely cabin in the wilds of Siberia by a party of which the speaker was a member. In the hand of the dead man was found a Bible and on the blank leaf of the book in front was pasted a small picture of the Stars and Stripes, underneath the picture being written the words, "Some day, please God." To see the old flag and all that the sight would imply, was the hope that possibly made life bearable for a long period before the end came to the poor human life. Some of our schools are doing excellent work in developing and fostering the spirit of patriotism; the flag drill and the salute to the colors are excellent features of the school order and should never be omitted at the proper time. One of the patrons of our public school was gratified the other day when his boy came home from school and recited a brief aptrophe to the flag, the words of Abraham Lincoln. The parent had not known that any attention was being paid to this vital subject in the school and the knowledge of it came as a pleasing revelation. In the city of Boston, on the 17th day of June (Bunker Hill battle anniversary) and possibly on other occasions, the public school children are marshaled in front of the state house, or at the base of the monument, and told the story of that day and others, standing on historic ground, the spire of the Old South Church in sight, and a short distance away the bridge at Concord where "The embattled farmer stood and fired the shot heard 'round the world." The children who at an early age have instilled into them the proper regard for the value of the country's institutions and a knowledge of what they cost, are not likely to be later led astray by false doctrines. True patriotism consists in a willingness to make when necessary, personal sacrifices for the common good, to lay aside as of secondary consideration one's individual ideas of personal liberty and to contribute first to the welfare of the whole. Governments are founded upon the idea of individual contributions to a common fund and patriotism consists in preferring the welfare of the nation to the untrammelled liberty of the individual. The part can never be greater than the whole.

(Contributed.)

It will be a surprise to most Americans to be told that this country is far behind England in respect to child labor laws. One of the speakers at the federation assembly who has had special opportunities for gaining information on the subject, said:
"While England permits children to work six hours a day, the conditions under which they work are more carefully attended to than they are in the United States. Strict provisions are made concerning light and air; no employer is allowed to work child employees under unsanitary conditions.
The need for special effort in behalf of the children thus employed is emphasized by the startling results of comparative statistics obtained in England. It is reported that even the half-timers weighed on an average 22 pounds less than non-employed children, and that they were from six to seven inches shorter. Such facts should arouse the people to find the remedy for child slavery."

Suggestive Questions

[Copyright, 1911, by Rev. T. S. Linscott, D.D.]

The Seed in the Four Kinds of Soil.

Golden Text—Receive with meekness the engrafted word, which is able to save your souls. Jas. 1:21.

(1.) Verse 1—What was the particular charm in Jesus which attracted to him such great crowds?

(2.) Is preaching from a boat just as holy and acceptable to God as from a pulpit in a cathedral or a church?

(3.) Verse 2—Why did Jesus teach in parables and what are the advantages or disadvantages of that method of teaching?

(4.) Verse 3—In what respect is the teaching of religion like the sowing of seed?

(5.) Verse 4—How would you regard a gardener who deliberately sowed seed on the highway?

(6.) Should a Christian sow the seed of the gospel in those hearts that are not prepared to receive it?

(7.) Verses 5-6—What class of people are those who resemble the stony ground?

(8.) When emotional or shallow minded people hear the gospel and are moved by it are they or not as likely to develop into strong Christians as those under like influences who are not so easily moved and think more deeply? Give your reasons.

(9.) Verse 7—What effect does preaching the gospel have upon those who will not give up their sins?

(10.) If a person is ever so much influenced by the gospel, but still holds on to some sin or sins, how much Christian fruit is he likely to bear?

(11.) Verse 8—How may it be possible for every person who is appealed to by the gospel to become a "good ground" hearer? (This is one of the questions which may be answered in writing by members of the club.)

(12.) How do you account for the different degrees of fruit bearing from those who answer to the "good ground" in this parable?

(13.) Verse 9—Is it a fault or a misfortune, and why, to have dull or no spiritual hearing?

(14.) Verses 10-13—Why did Jesus speak in parables that he knew some would not understand or would misunderstand?

(15.) What is the only way by which we may understand the teaching of Jesus?

(16.) Verse 14—What is "the word" which all Christians must sow?

(17.) Verse 15—What class of persons are "wayside" hearers?

(18.) Verses 16-17—Do those stony ground hearers, who receive the word with gladness and afterward fall away, actually get converted? Give your reasons.

(19.) Verse 20—What reward will they who are "good ground" hearers get?

Lesson for Sunday, July 21, 1912. The Growth of the Kingdom. Mark 4:26-32; Matt. xiii:33.

Discredited by a Knife.

An old politician whose tendencies were toward the teachings of prohibitionists tells how he accidentally spoiled the effect of a plea he was making against the liquor traffic before an outdoor audience in the northern part of Indiana. By the time he had made out the notes for his speech he had reached a point of view that boded ill for King Rum, and when he began speaking from them his imagination expanded and his language fairly scintillated with firebrands hurled at the traffic. In the midst of it, while paying his special respects to those who helped the traffic along by their lenience toward it, a series of malevolent breezes tried to carry off the loose leaves of his manuscript. To stop the annoyance he opened up his pocketknife and pinned the pages to the pine board before him. He pinned them with such a vigorous jolt that a big corkscrew with which the other end of the knife was equipped flopped open and stood up shamelessly before all those temperance people.

"I have always felt," the orator is wont to say, "that the impression I made on that crowd was not commensurate with the beauty of my effort."—Indianapolis News.

First Drop Curtain Sign.

It is very seldom nowadays that we catch a glimpse of advertising signs on the drop curtains of any New York production, and yet time was when this method of advertising was a source of revenue to the manager, and curtains were literally covered with signs. It is related that one of the foremost producers along Broadway some twenty-five years ago, while putting on a big musical play, discovered that his funds were running low and he was unable to raise a loan. One of the scenes in the play represented Union square, at that time the first class retail center of New York city. He had an idea. He went to merchants whose places of business were on Union square and proposed to show their stores in his scene and with their signs plainly in sight, which would be a good ad. The suggestion was readily accepted, and the producer got all the money he required for bringing out his play and a great deal more.—New York Telegraph.

Lively Wedding Gifts.

No one ever received a more curious consignment of wedding presents than the famous lion tamer Bidel. "We spent our honeymoon at Lyons," he once told a friend, "and we had some queer presents from the ordinary point of view, as all my friends were anxious to give something useful. Among other gifts were three box constrictors and five alligators. I shall never forget how annoyed I was and how frightened my wife was when during the night two of the alligators broke out of their boxes in our bedroom and began exploring. I could not find the matches, and my wife and I remained on top of the bed canopy till morning. Luckily my wife did not think of the thing that was worrying me. I was deadly afraid that the alligators would wake up the box constrictors."

Died For His Mate.

There is a tablet in the sailors' home at Melbourne to James Marr. He was a sailor before the mast on the Rip. On July 15, 1873, the Rip was caught in a squall. Marr sat astride of the gun when a great wave broke over the boat and brought down the mainmast. There was only one chance to save the Rip. That was to cut away the litter. But Marr clung to the broken spar, and to cut away meant to send him overboard to his death. So, looking at him doubtfully, the men hesitated, their axes in their hands. Marr, helpless, pondered. He saw that his death would be the boat's salvation, and he shouted:

"Cut away, mates! Goodbye!" Then he let himself fall into the cold, wild sea.

Making Dolls.

The assembling by German dollmakers of the different parts of the dolls is often very complicated. The best jointed dolls have stout elastic cord on the inside, to which the movable parts are attached. A special branch of the industry is devoted to the making of dresses and hats. The latest Parisian styles are copied in dressing the larger sized dolls, and the creations turned out compare very favorably in miniature with the original.

The Books of Youth.

The books that charmed us in youth recall the delight ever afterward. We are hardly persuaded there are any like them, any deserving equally our affections. Fortunate if the best fall in our way during these susceptible and formative periods of our lives.—Alicott.

Not Dangerous.

"We found a kidnaper in our house the other day."
"Good heavens! Did you get the police?"
"What! For a fine surprise present of a new cradle?"—Baltimore American.

Full of Thrills.

"Was the play exciting?"
"Oh, very! The management had engaged two leading ladies, and there was a constant struggle for the center of the stage."—Washington Herald.

Heart Throbs Stopped.

Nan—So you've had a falling out with Jack. I thought he loved you with all his heart. Pan—That's just it. He had heart failure.—Philadelphia Record.

The only thing that walks back from the tomb with the mourners and refuses to be buried is character.—W. M. Hunt.

THE EPIQUEUR.

When the Sultan Shah Zaman Goes to the city Ispahan, Even before he gets so far As the place where the lustered palm trees are, At the last of the thirty palace gates The pet of the harem, Rose in Bloom, Orders a feast in his favorite room— Glistening square of colored ice, Sweetened with shirups, tintured with spice; Creams and cordials and sugared dates; Syrian apples, Othmanee quinces, Limes and citrons and apricots. And wines that are known to eastern princes. —Thomas Bailey Aldrich.

YOUR DAY.

Today is your day and mine, the only day we have, the day in which we play our part. What our part may signify in the great whole we may not understand, but we are here to play our part, and now is our time to play it. This we know. It is a part of action, not of whining. It is a part of love, not of cynicism. It is for us to express love in terms of human helpfulness.—David Starr Jordan.

The Prettiest, Cheapest and Best

Little ranches in the whole State are right here at San Jacinto

San Jacinto is to have a new Hotel. Mr. Vosburg is erecting a fine Resort Hotel, after the general style of the Glenwood, Riverside, more evidence of the great prosperity that is taking place since the new Water Discovery. This new Hotel will have over two hundred foot frontage, and be strictly modern in every particular.

In addition there are two elegant Hot Springs Resorts, and the famous Mountain Resort of Idylwild near by all contributing their share to the desirability of SAN JACINTO and vicinity as a home site.

In fact our beautiful Valley has so much to offer in the way of inducements at this particular time, that anything in the form of advice from us, except a direct invitation to come and see with your own eyes, would be a useless expenditure of time, and possibly the loss of a good opportunity. Your eyes will tell you more than could be expressed in volumes. They will give you the whole truth, and in time to act to advantage. If you decide to come, either to look the Valley over, or as a prospective neighbor, you can rely on this organization for complete co-operation and advice at all times.

Personally we have no lands for sale, but we are interested in seeing our Valley grow and fill up with the right kind of people. We know from a close comparison of conditions and prices in the best localities throughout the southern part of the State that lands around San Jacinto, and business property within the city, are being priced away under value.

The thrifty little city of San Jacinto, with its wholesale and commission houses, furnishes an up-to-the-minute market for everything that is raised.

A Committee with autos has been appointed to show everybody around free, and we extend a hearty invitation to all of our good neighbors to see this beautiful little Valley of ours in all its glory. Come over on the Santa Fe in the morning, back in the evening. San Jacinto Board of Trade, San Jacinto, Cal.

The improvement work on Glendale avenue was completed the latter part of last week, and now presents an unusually pretty appearance. The work was done under the supervision of Peter L. Ferry, and is pronounced to be entirely satisfactory. It is understood that in the very near future the Salt Lake company, which runs a track the entire length of the improved street, will start the work of lowering the tracks to the grade of the street.

A process server of the superior court of Los Angeles, last week served an order of the court on the trustees and marshal of this city, wherein the Glendale Consolidated Water company seeks to restrain Tropic from interfering with the business of the company in regulating local water rates. This restraining order comes as a result of an ordinance passed recently by the trustees lowering the rates for water, etc.

The editor of the Tropic Sentinel seems to delight in taking shots at a certain correspondent in this valley, claiming that this gatherer of news "copied" from his highly-esteemed periodical. Folks living in glass bungalows should keep all their bricks in their own back yard. Under the head of "Society Notes" in the Sentinel this week appeared several "chestnuts" that were used in other valley papers some time ago.

Make your feet laugh by using Nylas Eas' em, only at Nesom's Drug Store.

WEST GLENDALE

Mr. McAdams has sold his home on West Broadway and purchased a lot in the new tract south of Tropic, intending to build soon.

Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Taylor and children were among the many who enjoyed the Fourth at Griffith Park, making the trip in Wood's auto stage.

And Glendale still grows, not only in one part of town, but every nook and cranny. Just lately there have been two new homes in the home of Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Gillan, 1117 Lomita avenue, twin girls—everybody perfectly satisfied and doing nicely.

Mrs. S. A. Merriken entertained a few friends at her home, 1529 Ivy street, on Wednesday. A very tempting dinner was served and covers laid for the following: Mrs. Roring and children of Tropic, Mrs. Lee and little son, Miss Merriken, Mrs. Merriken and children.

Mrs. Frank Booth was very agreeably surprised one evening lately by a jolly crowd of sister Rebekahs and Odd Fellows who had previously planned a very pleasant affair in her honor. The evening was one of enjoyment, the time being passed away by various games, music, etc. Delicious refreshments were served.

The Ladies' Aid of the West Glendale church met with quite a success with their ice cream social on Tuesday evening. A short program consisting of a prayer by Dr. Morrison, reading by Mrs. Henderson, duet by Mr. Henderson and Mr. Lyon, reading by Mrs. Morrison, preceded the refreshments, and everybody enjoyed themselves.

At the Caledonia picnic in Verdugo Park on the Fourth, there was a very proud little boy of Glendale. The little fellow, Master George Russ of Burckett street, entered the race for boys under eight years and won the second prize, a fine box of candy. This was his first attempt at anything of the kind, consequently he carried his head (and likewise the prize) quite elevated.

Doctor Elmer H. Thompson of Burbank and his friend, the stork, met the other morning. Father Stork had a fine baby boy for some one, but the doctor took such a liking to it that he coaxed the noble bird to let him have it for his own, so now instead of one little black-haired girl, Miss Dorothy, there is in the doctor's home a fine nine-pound boy, arriving on Saturday morning, July 6th. All this accounts for the new home that Dr. Thompson is erecting at Burbank. The stork left a girl in place of a boy he would have added two extra rooms, but as it is, he will have to make out with the seven-room bungalow and call it square.

VALLEY VIEW

Mrs. Sarah Ward of 1509 Hawthorne is visiting in Los Angeles.

Mrs. H. W. Petty went to Ocean Park last Friday to spend a few days.

Miss Ahmsley of San Diego is the guest of Mrs. C. M. Black at 1640 West Fifth.

Little Marie Hearnshaw of 1458 Lomita is suffering from a light attack of measles.

Eddie Wood and Monty Coole went to Ventura Wednesday to pick fruit. To the news:

Earl Bond's five-room bungalow, on the lot he recently purchased of M. E. Hyde, is rapidly nearing completion.

Mrs. Elwood Robinson of Los Angeles visited her parents, Mr. Van Why and wife of 1542 Vine street, last Friday.

Mrs. W. R. Petty and Mrs. W. N. Tobin returned home Sunday from Ocean Park, where they had been for ten days.

Little Evelyn Thomas of 1601 West Sixth celebrated her fifth birthday Tuesday with a party, to which several little friends were invited.

Mrs. E. M. Cooke of 1618 West Fifth is entertaining her niece and family, who have sold their home in Iowa and will locate somewhere in Los Angeles' vicinity.

Five of the six bungalows erected on Oak street, west of Pacific, a few months ago, were auctioned off a few days ago. They brought from $1,500 to $1,750. We hope all were bona fide purchases, and not by-bids.

Mrs. Nultz, the aged grandmother of Mrs. C. A. Sanders, of 1610 West Seventh, and Mrs. Jack Hearnshaw of 1458 Lomita, who fell and broke one hip a few weeks ago, is still utterly helpless. As she is eighty-five years of age, the bone does not knit, but she does not suffer great pain.

George McVale, a painter, who recently moved into West Glendale, and quite a wide swath in the few weeks of his stay. He bought a lot on West Seventh, and had a handsome bungalow erected on it. He made about two or three small payments on it, then suddenly left. He left all his creditors, also. None of the accounts were large, owing probably to the fact that George went away too soon.

Little Glen Case of 610 Central avenue, who broke his right leg near the hip more than four weeks ago, has given an example of patience that is little short of marvelous. Ever since the accident he has laid flat on his back in bed, with the injured leg held in a perpendicular position by a cord passing over a pulley attached to the ceiling. He has been happy and uncomplaining nearly all the time. The leg is now to be put in a plaster cast.

Rexall Liver Salts clear the complexion, stimulates the liver's action. Only at Nesom's Drug Store.

N. C. Kelley has leased to Gen. M. Martinez of Pueblo, Mex., the residence at 1112 Melrose avenue, who will occupy it with his family pending the war in Mexico.
